PROVE COMPETENCY

To Make Will Before Rather Than After Death.

Collier's Weekly has the following editorial in the current issue in reference to a suggestion by a Lucas county appellate judge:

"An able lawyer and thoughtful man is the Hon. Reynolds R. Kinkade of the Ohio court of appeals. From him comes this suggestion: 'That the competency of a man to make a will be decided before his death instead of afterward.'"

"Concretely a man wanting to make a will would go before a judicial tribunal—say the usual probate court—which should take evidence as to his competency and make findings which should be forever binding.

"This would do away with the expensive and tedious lawsuits which occur sometimes a score of years after the will is made and at a time when the best possible evidence namely, the maker of the will, has long been under the ground. The certifications of this judicial tribunal would be final.

"Is there not in this a complete analogy to those proceedings of public officials which validate certain bond issues and so certify the bonds? Certainly this is a suggestion worthy of discussion on the part of lawyers."

Judge Kinkade is well known in Wood county, and it was this same judge whose decision rendered in Wood County Circuit Court was the first to be made (and still stands) defining what is a newspaper and his Honor's decision has made history that sounds good to the newspaper publisher whose desire to exist had long been denied by that class of publications that claimed to own the world because they "saw it first."

BASKET BALL.

P. H. S. plays Lake Twp. High here Friday evening. The P. H. S. boys seem to have picked up a little "pep" since their overwhelming defeat by Grand Rapids, and a good game is assured.

The town team will also play. The girls open their season Friday evening at Rudolph.

On Wednesday, Jan. 13th, the P. H. S. girls will play the Bowling Green girls. This promises to be a very interesting game. The boys will also have a game for that evening.

FARM AND ORCHARD

Suggestions Offered by Extension Department State University.

Are you thinking of removing or repairing any of the buildings on your farm next spring? If so write to the Extension Department, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, for stock plans of barns, houses, poultry houses, corn cribs, dairy barns, etc. These plans represent the latest ideas in farm building construction and are designed to provide the facilities at an economical cost. If special plans are desired blue prints covering the construction will be made by the department at cost. If extensive planning is desired a specialist on farm buildings will be sent to outline the work and offer practical suggestions. No cost is attached to this service.

"Fowls will keep themselves free from vermin during the winter months if given a convenient place to dust," says M. J. Killpatrick, poultry expert, Ohio State University extension service. "A box 30 inches square and 12 inches deep may be built in one corner of the pen, or such a box may be made with legs so as to raise it 16 inches off of the floor. Almost any fine dry powder will make good dusting material. The particles should be fine enough so that they will choke up the breathing pores of the parasites which live on the fowl's body. Equal parts of loam, sand and sifted coal ashes, to which has been added a little kerosene oil and the whole thoroughly mixed is often used for the dust."

Farmers need not lay up their automobiles for the winter because of danger of freezing up the engine, says Frederick W. Ives of the agricultural engineering department, Ohio State University.

PROTECT THE ROADS.

Township Trustees Will Enforce Laws Prohibiting Cutting Through Roads.

The Perrysburg township trustees have received numerous complaints concerning the manner in which the roads have been cut up by farmers and others who have laid tile under the roadbed for drainage purposes and have not properly replaced the roadbed, thus injuring the road and in many cases leaving obstructions which are dangerous to travel.

The trustees give timely warning by advertisement in another column and announce that they will enforce the law in every case. In this, the trustees are to be greatly commended.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets and must say they are the best I have ever used for constipation and indigestion. My wife also used them for indigestion and they did her good," writes Eugene S. Knight, Wilmington, N. C. For sale by all dealers.
